HOME EDUCATION OF STUDENTS

The School Committee recognizes the right of parents to provide a home educational alternative to public school for their child. This right is not absolute but subject to reasonable regulation by the local school authorities. Parents have the right to propose a home education alternative and the School Committee or Superintendent has the right, under Section I of Chapter 76 of Massachusetts General Laws, to approve or disapprove it. Such approval must be obtained in advance of its implementation. Incomplete applications will not be sent forward for approval.

In evaluating each proposed home education alternative the Superintendent and School Committee will consider the following factors:

1. The competency of the teachers. Though certification is not required, the presence or absence of the requirements that would lead to certification may be considered.
2. The teaching of subjects required by state law, Chapter 71, Sections 1, 2, and 3, or regulations; as well as the content of the subjects being taught.
3. The number of hours and days devoted to teaching to meet the minimum requirements of the state.
4. The adequacy of the texts, materials, methods and programs being used.
5. The availability of periodic tests and measurement of the child's educational growth.

If the application is denied, parents have the right to a hearing before the school authorities to allow them an opportunity to explain their plan and answer questions about it. They may be represented by counsel and shall be provided reasonable notice of the time and place of such a hearing.

An approved plan must include a periodic evaluation of the child's progress under guidelines and standards set by the School Committee to measure whether adequate educational progress has been made. Documentation of evaluation will be required at the end of each academic year.

Please note that no special services will be provided by Westfield Public Schools for your child while being home educated. If your child was previously on an Individual Education Plan, a review meeting should be conducted with the office of Special Education prior to return to public school.

Please sign indicating that you have read all the requirements of Home-Based Education for your child(ren).
